"Come, all you who are thirsty, come to the waters; and you who have no money, come, buy and eat! Come, buy wine and milk without money and without cost.

2 Why spend money on what is not bread, and your labor on what does not satisfy?

Listen, listen to me, and eat what is good, and you will delight in the richest of fare.

3 Give ear and come to me;

listen, that you may live. I will make an everlasting covenant with you, my faithful love promised to David.

Medicine may have a drinking problem

by the Middle Park Health Staff

Medicine has always touted the health benefits of moderate consumption of alcohol; for many years two servings a day has been recommended for heart health. But does that evidence still hold true? New studies and re-analysis of old data suggests that those benefits may have been overblown or even false. Similar to early tobacco research, much of this research was funded by the alcohol industry. So, is moderate alcohol consumption beneficial to your health? Is it health neutral? Or could the overall picture of alcohol consumption be one of detriment to your health?

This is important because alcohol related deaths count for nearly 7% of deaths annually in the US (tobacco approximately 13.5%). Depending on the study, anywhere from 18.8 million to 29.5 million people have Alcohol Use Disorder, as defined by the American Psychiatric Association's Diagnostic and Statistics Manual Fifth Edition (DSM IV) criteria. The wide difference in number relates to the ages included in the statistics. From 2006 to 2013 there was a 30% increase in high risk drinking (more than 2 drinks a night for males, more than one drink a night for females, or more than 4 drinks at any one time) and nearly doubled during the COVID-19 pandemic, according to early studies.

Previously, the medical community supported the idea that drinking alcohol could actually be healthy. Research into this was spurred by what was called the French Paradox; the observation that despite eating a diet rich in high cholesterol and high in red wine consumption, the French had lower rates of cardiovascular disease and death. This was based on interpretation of data to suggest that the risk of cardiovascular disease and death was lower in subjects who drank moderate amounts of alcohol. This led to the notion a healthy consumption of alcohol for men was 2 drinks a day and 1 drink a day for women.

Was the interpretation of the data correct and what about alcohol's effect on other diseases? More recent studies and re-analysis of combination of participants in older studies (Meta Analysis) suggest this benefit was overblown and in some cases even wrong. The most recent study published in the Journal of American Medical Association in March 2023 showed there was no reduction in all-cause mortality in moderate drinkers and also significantly more risk of mortality for female moderate drinkers. Another study showed no reduction in cardiovascular disease death in young study participants. There's also no denying the data that shows that alcohol is definitively causative of 7 cancers and a likely cause in many more. And none of this even takes into consideration deaths directly caused by Alcohol Use Disorder including overdoses and accidents.

The new understanding of alcohol's detriment to health has lead the World Health Organization to change its stance on alcohol recently to state, "when it comes to alcohol, there is no safe amount that does not negatively affect health." It is the WHO stance that those who drink alcohol should consider drinking less and those who do not drink alcohol should not start.

Adult Concussions

Management of concussions in children and in sports is at the forefront of medical news. With the focus on kids, we don't hear much about how concussions affect adults. Dr. Mark Wisner and Middle Park Health offer a community discussion including the topics:

- Do adults even get concussions?
- When adults hit their heads or suffer from whiplash, is damage to the brain similar to youth?
- What symptoms occur in adults and how do they recover?
- How are adults treated and what are long term effects?

Please join Middle Park Health and Dr. Wisner for this month's topic;

CDOT kicks off heightened DUI enforcement ahead of Memorial Day

Tips for safe driving during the 100 Deadliest Days of Summer

Statewide — As the temperatures rise and the days get longer, Coloradans are looking forward to fun in the sun. However, because summer activities often involve alcohol (or sometimes cannabis), the Colorado Department of Transportation is asking drivers to prioritize safety while enjoying the warmer weather. Starting May 16 CDOT, Colorado State Patrol (CSP) and local law enforcement agencies will begin the Heat Is On Memorial Day DUI enforcement. For 21 days traffic safety patrols will be increased to help keep Colorado roadways safe from impaired drivers.

CDOT is also beginning its May Mobilization seat belt enforcement period today, May 15, as part of its Click It or Ticket campaign. This is the largest seat belt enforcement period of the year.

“As we kick off the summer season, remember to plan for a sober ride when attending celebrations and get-togethers,” said Col. Matthew C. Packard, chief of the Colorado State Patrol. “Your Colorado State Troopers and statewide law enforcement agencies are dedicated to making sure everyone gets home safely and keeping Colorado roads free of impaired drivers.”

According to preliminary CDOT data, 24% of the drivers involved in fatal crashes in 2022 were between the ages of 25 and 34, and 40% of them were suspected of being impaired at the time of the crash.

Memorial Day also marks the start of the 100 Deadliest Days of Summer, a period between Memorial Day and Labor Day that sees a spike in impaired driving. Last year there were 132 impaired driving arrests during the Memorial Day enforcement period, bringing the total number of DUI arrests during the 2022 summer enforcements to 1,598.

“Before going out, make a plan to get home safe,” said CDOT’s Office of Transportation Safety Director Darrell Lingk. “If you’re drinking, don’t drive. Have a sober driver ready to get you home. Use a rideshare service. There are many options for an impaired person to make it home alive — but none of them should include getting behind the wheel.”

Planning for a busy summer? Here are more of CDOT’s tips for staying safe on the road:

- Plan ahead. Have a designated sober driver.
- Seat belts. Always buckle up when in a vehicle.

Drop the distraction. Set your phone on Do Not Disturb mode.

Buzzed driving is drunk driving. If you feel different, you drive different.

Use a rideshare service, a taxi or mass transit to avoid driving impaired

The Spring Events enforcement period, which ran from April 7-24, concluded with 618 DUI arrests across 78 participating agencies. The agencies with the highest number of arrests were the Colorado Springs Police Department (138), Denver Police Department (56) and Thornton Police Department (34). CSP arrested 238 impaired drivers.

For yearly impaired driving crash and fatality data in Colorado, visit codot.gov/safety/traffic-safety/data-analysis/fatal-crash-data. For local law enforcement agency plans, visit codot.gov/safety/traffic-safety-reporting-portal.

Crash Not Accident

Note to reporters: Crashes are no accident — they are preventable. We would appreciate you saying 'crash' instead of 'accident' when reporting.

About The Heat Is On

The CDOT Highway Safety Office provides funding to Colorado law enforcement for impaired driving enforcement, education and awareness campaigns. The Heat Is On campaign runs throughout the year, with 16 specific high-visibility impaired driving enforcement periods centered on national holidays and large public events. Enforcement periods can include sobriety checkpoints, saturation patrols and additional law enforcement on duty dedicated to impaired driving enforcement. Find more details about the campaign, including impaired driving enforcement plans, arrest totals and safety tips at HeatIsOnColorado.com. More information about DUI laws in Colorado can be found at NoDUIColorado.org. Learn more about CDOT’s dedication to keeping Colorado roads safe, including impaired driving enforcement objectives, arrest data and safety information at codot.gov/safety.

LOOKING AHEAD

Last Day of School, June 1

CDOT kicks off heightened DUI enforcement ahead of Memorial Day

As the temperatures rise and the days get longer, Coloradans are looking forward to fun in the sun. However, because summer activities often involve alcohol (or sometimes cannabis), the Colorado Department of Transportation is asking drivers to prioritize safety while enjoying the warmer weather. Starting May 16 CDOT, Colorado State Patrol (CSP) and local law enforcement agencies will begin the Heat Is On Memorial Day DUI enforcement. For 21 days traffic safety patrols will be increased to help keep Colorado roadways safe from impaired drivers.

CDOT is also beginning its May Mobilization seat belt enforcement period today, May 15, as part of its Click It or Ticket campaign. This is the largest seat belt enforcement period of the year.

“As we kick off the summer season, remember to plan for a sober ride when attending celebrations and get-togethers,” said Col. Matthew C. Packard, chief of the Colorado State Patrol. “Your Colorado State Troopers and statewide law enforcement agencies are dedicated to making sure everyone gets home safely and keeping Colorado roads free of impaired drivers.”

According to preliminary CDOT data, 24% of the drivers involved in fatal crashes in 2022 were between the ages of 25 and 34, and 40% of them were suspected of being impaired at the time of the crash.

Memorial Day also marks the start of the 100 Deadliest Days of Summer, a period between Memorial Day and Labor Day that sees a spike in impaired driving. Last year there were 132 impaired driving arrests during the Memorial Day enforcement period, bringing the total number of DUI arrests during the 2022 summer enforcements to 1,598.

“Before going out, make a plan to get home safe,” said CDOT’s Office of Transportation Safety Director Darrell Lingk. “If you’re drinking, don’t drive. Have a sober driver ready to get you home. Use a rideshare service. There are many options for an impaired person to make it home alive — but none of them should include getting behind the wheel.”

Planning for a busy summer? Here are more of CDOT’s tips for staying safe on the road:

Plan ahead. Have a designated sober driver

Seat belts. Always buckle up when in a vehicle

Drop the distraction. Set your phone on Do Not Disturb mode

Buzzed driving is drunk driving. If you feel different, you drive different

Use a rideshare service, a taxi or mass transit to avoid driving impaired

The Spring Events enforcement period, which ran from April 7-24, concluded with 618 DUI arrests across 78 participating agencies. The agencies with the highest number of arrests were the Colorado Springs Police Department (138), Denver Police Department (56) and Thornton Police Department (34). CSP arrested 238 impaired drivers.

Senate Bill 23-256, Management of Gray Wolves

By Brittany Dixon, Executive Director, Club 20

As west slope residents, we understand the value of the agriculture industry and livestock producers, and we expect our government and elected officials to protect and guarantee that they have the resources necessary to succeed, not fear, the viability of their businesses. We also rely on the Governor to listen to all constituents and support bipartisan efforts from the legislature. That is why we are urging him to sign this bill along with Senate Bill 23-255, Wolf Depredation Compensation.

Club 20 praises the continued work from experts and involved stakeholders that have worked so diligently to identify the means to mitigate detrimental impacts of the reintroduction of wolves, that was passed into law by the voters through Proposition 114. Senate Bill 23-256 (SB23-256) was bipartisan legislation introduced by western slope legislators, whose constituents stand to be the most impacted. Throughout the entirety of its time in the legislature, this bill has had an overwhelming amount of bipartisan support. All Coloradans, but perhaps more intensely, the western slope communities are concerned about the success of reintroduction without having these two bills signed into law.

SB23-256 mandates that wolf reintroduction cannot happen until the U.S. Department of the Interior has made a final determination in accordance with the Endangered Species Act, 16 U.S.C. section 1539(j), or the 10(j) rule is granted. Club 20, along with a broad coalition of interested stakeholders, believe that this is an extremely fair ask when dealing with the reintroduction of an apex predator onto Colorado lands. Known established wolf behavior describes that they will be outside private and state lands and on federal lands within hours of the releases, and those potential impacts are something that we must be prepared to handle. Releasing wolves without the 10(j) rule would be irresponsible for Colorado and could create an unmanageable population, right in our own backyards.

It is imperative that this reintroduction is thoroughly deliberated to be implemented properly. While Club 20 supports the protection of endangered species being important to the economy and quality of life in Western Colorado, we certainly cannot support further efforts to release wolves without having the 10(j)-management plan implemented.

“The 10(j) rule provides management flexibility that is a critical component to the success of this Plan and on which, other components of the Plan depend.” There could potentially be vast detrimental impacts that would be nearly impossible to fix after wolves are released into our communities without the 10(j) rule in place. This project will be more likely to succeed by having proper management tools established prior to reintroduction.

SB23-256 does not interfere, nor does it negate the United States Fish and Wildlife Service process, as requested by the Colorado Parks and Wildlife (CPW), that gives them the ability to fully manage these predators. Club 20 believes that wildlife management is a matter of science and fact and is the professional obligation and responsibility of the State of Colorado and the CPW, so let’s make sure they have the right tools in the toolbox for them to succeed and to fulfill these obligations to the best of their abilities.

The language written, and passed, by the voters in Proposition 114 states that, by December 31, 2023, “the Commission shall, take the steps necessary to begin reintroductions of gray wolves.”

Nowhere in the verbiage that was passed does it state that there needs to be “paws on the ground” in accordance with that timeline.

Club 20 acknowledges that the law must be implemented, but we also recognize the importance of enforcing laws under correct pretenses and not those that were interpreted differently than written.

Neither this piece of legislation, nor our comments, have the intention to reverse the reintroduction efforts, rather are encouraging that “the steps necessary to begin reintroductions of wolves” are taking place.

This bill, if signed, helps to take those necessary steps, provides protection, and supports the success of the reintroduction plan. It provides management tools for CPW and assurances for all parties, including livestock producers, sportsmen and women, and wolf advocates that all components of the law are implemented and achieved. This is why we are urging the Governor to sign both bills into law.

Library article of the week

Author Ted Conover has once again taken readers on a captivating journey through his latest book, Cheap Land Colorado, which explores the complex issues surrounding the boom of rural development.

The book offers a detailed and honest account of rapid growth, where large numbers of people are flocking in search of affordable housing and picturesque landscapes. Through his immersive journalism, Conover delves into the consequences of this rapid expansion, including its impact on the environment, wildlife, and the local community.

One of the key issues raised in Cheap Land Colorado is the tension between development and preservation. Conover provides an in-depth look at the impact of such development on the local economy, as well as on the social fabric of the community.

Dede Fey, an avid reader, an active GC resident, and member of Granby Library's monthly Lunch Bunch Book Club, said "Cheap Land Colorado captivated my interest and curiosity from the start. The San Luis Valley is a fascinating area, and Ted Conover offers insightful and intriguing perspectives. I am inspired to read all of Conover's books as his style of inserting himself personally into his topic is compelling." She read two of his books for this month's book club.

Conover's writing is insightful and nuanced, drawing on his extensive research and firsthand experiences. His personal observations and interviews with locals provide a unique perspective on the issues facing the San Luis Valley and other rural areas across the country.

The book has a particular resonance in Grand County, which has experienced significant growth and development in recent years. Conover's writing offers a powerful reminder of the importance of understanding the complex challenges facing these communities and working towards sustainable solutions. It's no wonder Cheap Land Colorado has been one of the top non-fiction titles to check out of GCLD libraries in the last few years.

"A Conversation with Author Ted Conover" will be held at the Granby Library Friday, June 2, at 6 p.m. Hosted by Community of Writers and awards winning author, Martin J. Smith, the two will delve into Conover's subject matter and writing craft. A time for audience Q & A, as well as an opportunity to purchase a signed copy of Cheap Land Colorado will close the event.

Check www.gclcd.org for additional programs related to issues raised in Cheap Land Colorado including sustainable agriculture with Sisu Farms and Off-Grid Living.
